#[WATCHLIvE]HQ!] Tigres vs Nashville Live

Free CONCACAF Champions Cup Soccer – May 06, 2026

Tigres UANL battles Nashville SC in a decisive Concacaf Champions Cup Semifinal — full context, lineups, analysis, and live streaming guide.

LIVE NOW

■ What Live Stream : Watch Here

Competition:	CONCACAF Champions Cup 2026 – Semifinal Leg 2
Date:	May 6, 2026
Time:	8:30 PM CT	9:30 PM ET	01:30 UTC
Venue:	Estadio Universitario, Monterrey, Mexico
TV / Stream:	FS1, TUDN, ViX, Fubo, DirecTV Stream, Sling Blue
1st Leg:	Nashville SC 0 – 1 Tigres UANL (Tigres lead on agg.)

Tigres vs Nashville: Live Concacaf Champions Cup Action

The 2026 CONCACAF Champions Cup Semifinal reaches its explosive conclusion tonight. Tigres UANL host Nashville SC at Estadio Universitario in Monterrey, Mexico, holding a slim but precious 1-0 aggregate advantage from the first leg. Nashville SC must score to stay alive. Tigres must defend on home soil to book a Final berth. Everything is on the line — this is high-stakes continental football at its finest.

Meet the Clubs

Tigres UANL – Liga MX Giants

Tigres UANL are one of Mexico's most storied clubs, based in Monterrey and known for their passionate fanbase, tactical discipline, and continental pedigree. Their squad features legendary striker André-Pierre Gignac, explosive forward Ángel Correa — who scored the decisive first-leg goal — and attacking threat Nicolás Ibáñez. At Estadio Universitario, Tigres are a fortress. Their Liga MX experience in high-pressure knockout environments gives them a significant psychological edge on home turf.

Nashville SC – MLS Eastern Conference Leaders

Nashville SC arrive in Monterrey as the Eastern Conference table-toppers in MLS 2026, a team full of belief and momentum. The 'Boys in Gold' already made history this season by defeating Club América 1-0 at historic Estadio Azteca — the first-ever MLS win at that iconic ground. Goalkeeper Brian Schwake has been outstanding, recording six saves in the first leg alone. Captain Hany Mukhtar leads the attack alongside Cristian Espinoza and Cristian Espinoza, with the entire squad capable of a historic comeback.

The Story So Far

First Leg Recap – Nashville 0-1 Tigres

At GEODIS Park on April 28, 2026, following a 60-minute weather delay, Tigres UANL claimed a crucial 1-0 victory. Ángel Correa's 33rd-minute strike was the only goal of the match. Nashville goalkeeper Brian Schwake was heroic, making six key saves to keep the deficit to just one goal. That away goal for Tigres adds another layer of pressure on Nashville, who must now score at least once in Mexico.

What Nashville Need to Advance

Away goals are the primary tiebreaker in this Concacaf Champions Cup series. Nashville must score at least two goals in a regulation win, or win by any margin after extra time or penalties following a 1-0 lead at full time. A 1-0 Nashville win after 90 minutes triggers 30 minutes of extra time, and a potential penalty shootout. The margin is thin, the pressure is immense — but Nashville have done the impossible before.

Road Warriors: Nashville's Away Record

Nashville SC are unbeaten in away matches across the 2026 Champions Cup — two wins and one draw on the road. That includes their landmark 1-0 victory at Estadio Azteca to eliminate Club América in the quarterfinals. Travelling to hostile Mexican venues has not deterred this squad. That resilience could prove decisive in Monterrey.

Key Positional Battles to Watch

● GK Duel

Brian Schwake (Nashville) vs Nahuel Guzman (Tigres). Schwake has conceded just 7 goals in 16 starts. Guzman, the experienced Argentine, will need to be alert if Nashville press early.

● Correa vs Baker-Whiting

Ángel Correa, scorer of the first-leg goal, faces Reed Baker-Whiting on Nashville's right side. Correa's pace and positioning make him the most dangerous threat in this tie.

● Mukhtar's Creativity

Captain Hany Mukhtar will be Nashville's creative engine. His ability to unlock Tigres' compact defensive block could determine whether Nashville score the crucial away goal they so desperately need.

● Midfield Control

Fernando Gorriaran (Tigres captain) vs Patrick Yazbek and Eddi Tagseth for Nashville. Whoever controls the midfield zone controls the tempo — and the tempo could decide this tie.

● Ibáñez & Aguirre

Nicolás Ibáñez and Rodrigo Aguirre give Tigres a dual striker threat capable of punishing Nashville on the counter. Nashville's back four must stay compact and avoid giving cheap fouls in dangerous areas.

Tactical Preview & Coaching Strategies

Tigres: Defend the Lead, Strike on the Counter

Tigres are expected to set up in their familiar 5-3-2 or 4-4-2 defensive shape, protecting their aggregate lead while remaining dangerous on rapid counter-attacks. Head coach will likely deploy Gorriaran and Vigon to control central midfield and reduce Nashville's time on the ball. The threat of Correa and Ibáñez on the break means Tigres can win this tie without being overtly aggressive — patience is their weapon.

Nashville: Press High, Score Early

Nashville must abandon caution and take the game to Tigres from the first whistle. A high press, quick transitions, and early goal would completely change the dynamic of this tie. Nashville's coach is expected to restore Woobens Pacius up top and use Espinoza's pace on the left flank to stretch Tigres' defense. The first 20 minutes could set the tone for the entire match — Nashville cannot afford to be passive.

The Venue & Atmosphere

Estadio Universitario, Monterrey

Estadio Universitario — known simply as 'El Volcán' (The Volcano) — is one of the most intimidating venues in North American football. Located on the campus of Universidad Autónoma de Nuevo León, the stadium holds over 42,000 passionate Tigres supporters. The noise, the colour, the ferocious home support — this will be a wall of sound that Nashville must rise above. It truly is a cauldron of football passion.

Nashville's Traveling Support

A contingent of Nashville SC supporters — known as 'La Murga' — are expected to make the journey to Monterrey. Their voices in the away end will be crucial for Nashville's players. The Boys in Gold have shown remarkable mental fortitude in hostile away environments this season, and tonight that resilience will be tested to its absolute limit.

Match Flow: Half-by-Half Breakdown

First Half

Expect Nashville to come out aggressive, pressing high and looking for an early goal. Tigres will absorb pressure and try to hit on the counter via Correa and Ibáñez. The first goal is absolutely critical — if Nashville score first, the whole tie changes. If Tigres score, Nashville would need three goals to advance from regular time.

Second Half

Substitutions will play a key role. Tigres may bring Gignac off the bench to hold the ball and run down the clock. Nashville's bench — including Ahmed Qasem and Woobens Pacius — provides genuine impact options. The 60–75 minute window may prove decisive: if it remains level, both teams will become increasingly anxious as time runs out.

Extra Time & Penalties

If Nashville lead 1-0 after 90 minutes, the tie goes to extra time. Fatigue becomes a factor — Nashville are playing their fourth match in 11 days. A penalty shootout would be a nerve-shredding lottery, but Nashville keeper Brian Schwake has the composure and form to be a hero from 12 yards.

Players to Watch Tonight

- Ángel Correa (Tigres)

The 1st-leg goalscorer. Razor-sharp movement in the box and clinical finishing. If Nashville sleep even briefly, Correa will punish them.

- André-Pierre Gignac (Tigres)

The legendary Frenchman may start or enter from the bench. His hold-up play and experience in big matches can be game-changing.

- Hany Mukhtar (Nashville)

Nashville's captain and creative heartbeat. His passing range, set-piece delivery, and leadership under pressure make him Nashville's most important player.

- Brian Schwake (Nashville)

The first-year starter has been outstanding all campaign — 7 goals conceded in 16 starts. His shot-stopping could keep Nashville in the tie.

- Cristian Espinoza (Nashville)

Dangerous on the left flank, with pace and directness to trouble the Tigres right side. Nashville need him to deliver crosses and create chances.

- Rodrigo Aguirre (Tigres)

A predatory striker who works in tandem with Ibáñez and Correa. His movement in behind Nashville's defensive line is a serious threat on transitions.

Road to the Final & What's at Stake

The Final on May 30, 2026

The winner of tonight's clash will face either LAFC or Toluca in the CONCACAF Champions Cup Final on Saturday, May 30, 2026. LAFC currently lead that semifinal 2-1 on aggregate. A place in the Final represents the highest honour in North and Central American club football, with the added glory of representing the Concacaf region on the global stage.

Nashville's Historic Season

Nashville SC have already made history this season — winning at Estadio Azteca, leading the MLS Eastern Conference, and reaching the Concacaf Champions Cup Semifinal for the first time. A comeback in Monterrey would cement this as the greatest season in the club's history. Alumni, fans, and an entire city are watching from Nashville tonight.

Tigres' Continental Ambitions

For Tigres, this is another chapter in their proud continental story. Advancing to the Final on home soil, in front of El Volcán, would validate their 2026 campaign and restore Monterrey's status as a powerhouse of Concacaf football. Their experienced squad knows what it takes to win in these pressure situations.

How & Where to Watch

- TV Channels (USA): FS1, TUDN, ViX
- Streaming (USA): Fubo TV, DirecTV Stream, Sling Blue
- Kickoff Time: 8:30 PM CT | 9:30 PM ET | 1:30 AM UTC (May 6)
- Venue: Estadio Universitario, Monterrey, Mexico
- VPN Option: For fans abroad, services like NordVPN allow streaming via your usual platform

---

Frequently Asked Questions

What time does Tigres vs Nashville start?

Kickoff is at 8:30 PM CT / 9:30 PM ET on Tuesday, May 6, 2026. That is 01:30 UTC on May 6.

Where is the Tigres vs Nashville second leg being played?

At Estadio Universitario in Monterrey, Mexico — Tigres' home ground, also known as 'El Volcán'.

What does Nashville SC need to qualify?

Nashville must score at least two goals in a regulation win, or win by any margin in extra time or a penalty shootout if trailing 1-0 after 90 minutes. Away goals are the primary tiebreaker.

What was the result of the first leg?

Tigres UANL won 1-0 at GEODIS Park in Nashville on April 28, 2026. Ángel Correa scored in the 33rd minute. Nashville's goalkeeper Brian Schwake made six saves.

Who will be playing in the Concacaf Champions Cup Final?

The winner of Tigres vs Nashville will face either LAFC or Toluca in the Final on May 30, 2026. LAFC currently hold a 2-1 aggregate lead in their semifinal.

Has Nashville SC ever beaten a Mexican club in Mexico?

Yes — Nashville SC defeated Club América 1-0 at Estadio Azteca in the quarterfinal second leg, the first-ever MLS win at that historic venue. They are 2W-0L-1D away in the 2026 Champions Cup.

Predicted Outcomes

- If Tigres advance: They book a Concacaf Champions Cup Final on home soil — a massive achievement for the Monterrey club and Mexican football's continental standing.

● If Nashville advance: One of the greatest moments in MLS history. A stunning comeback in Mexico, capping a historic season and putting Nashville SC on the global football map.

● If it goes to penalties: Anything can happen. Brian Schwake has the composure. Nahuel Guzman has the experience. It would be an unforgettable finish to a dramatic tie.

Conclusion

Tigres UANL vs Nashville SC is the marquee match of the 2026 CONCACAF Champions Cup — a genuine clash of footballing cultures, styles, and ambitions. Tigres bring Liga MX pedigree and home advantage. Nashville bring MLS momentum, historic road form, and an entire city's belief behind them. Whether it ends in a defensive masterclass from Tigres or a stunning Nashville comeback, this is a night that will be remembered in North American football for a very long time.

Tigres UANL vs Nashville SC | CONCACAF Champions Cup 2026 | Semifinal Leg 2